Mixed media collage with word cloud superimposed on painted background, 2017

In 1967, legendary Austrian pianist Paul Badura-Skoda wrote an essay entitled "Look to the Guiding Stars!". He gave an autographed copy to his friend, the Greek pianist Eva Anastasiadou-Stange, who, thirty years later, gave a copy of that essay her student Roman Gerodimos. In 2017, with

As Mr Badura-Skoda notes in his essay, "everybody has the capacity of vision"...

Mr Badura-Skoda's kind permission, Gerodimos is creating a short film based on that essay: Essence. Essence is about harmony, diligence and beauty. It is about the struggle of the individual to create and belong in something that is bigger than the self. It is about our need to hope, believe and love.
